I have not received funding directly from any commercial entities. However, I participate in the Interphone study as the principal investigator for the Swedish part, and some of the funding of the Swedish part came from IARC (International Agency for Research on Cancer). IARC received part of the funding for the Interphone study from UICC (International Union Against Cancer). The UICC received funds for this purpose from the Mobile Manufacturers' Forum and GSM Association. The provision of funds to the INTERPHONE study investigators via the UICC was governed by agreements that guaranteed INTERPHONE's complete scientific independence. These agreements are publicly available at the IARC homepage.

I am co-investigator of the COSMOS study, an international cohort study of mobile phone use and health (principal investigator for the Swedish component is Anders Ahlbom). Funding of the Swedish part of COSMOS comes from the Swedish Research Council, AFA Insurance (<http://www.afaforsakring.se/WmTemplates/Page.aspx?id=2602>), and VINNOVA (The Swedish Governmental Agency for Innovation Systems, <http://www.vinnova.se/In-English/About-VINNOVA/>). VINNOVA received funds for this purpose from TeliaSonera, Ericsson AB and Telenor. The provision of funds to the COSMOS study investigators via VINNOVA is governed by agreements that guarantees COSMOS' complete scientific independence.

I am co-investigator of the study "EMF and childhood leukemia survival – a pooled analysis, and received funds for this from the Danish Cancer Society (principal investigator is Joachim Schüz, Danish Cancer Society). The Danish Cancer Society received funds for the study from Electric Power Research Institute (EPRI).

From February 8, 2011, my daughter (21 years old), is employed by Manpower as a customer service agent. Manpower is a company that among other things provides consultants to companies that need temporary or longer term extra staff. My daughter's current assignment is to work as a consultant at Ericsson AB, where she works as a contact center agent for their first-line support, mainly internal how-to support (e.g. how to fill out the electronic travel reimbursement form, how to change a purchase order that had already been submitted). It is, however, Manpower that is her employer and pays her salary.

I hereby declare that the disclosed information is true and complete to the best of my knowledge. Should there be any change to the above information, I will promptly notify the ICNIRP Secretariat and complete a new declaration of interests which takes the changes into account.
